The following is a video package that uses clay figures as a resource to address different topics. Here you will find explained what each video consists of, and the link to download it. In each link you will find the video in Spanish and the version with English subtitles.

Each National Society can use one or more videos as it sees fit, and in the contexts that are best suited to achieve the objectives that have been proposed.

Here you will find two groups of videos:
- Related to COVID-19
- Related to migration

How to use these resources?

They can be shared through social media as part of communication campaigns. They can also be shared with different areas of your National Society so that they can be used as inputs for courses, training and/or community activities.

If they are used in community activities, you can play the video and then generate discussions about it. Some questions you could made to engage a conversation are:

- What do you think of the situation portrayed in the video?
- How would you feel if you were the main character of this video?
- Besides the recommendations already given by the Red Cross character in the video, which other recommendations would you give to solve the problematic?
- Do you know people that could be living what is shown in the video? What advice would you give them?
- Do you think you can contribute to prevent the situations in the video from repeating?
Videos are a great tool for generating group discussions and documenting participants' comments and opinions. They can also help to do exercises to put themselves in other people's shoes and from there begin to build new behaviors in relation to the situations presented.

These videos could also be shared in WhatsApp groups with members of the communities in which your National Society usually works. Especially if you cannot have community meetings, perhaps the discussion can be carried out through WhatsApp.
